

Brooke Lylo is the mother of two boys and an Associate Professor of Special Education at Bloomsburg University. She started her career teaching kindergarten in the Baltimore City Public School System and continued teaching in Baltimore City as a fifth grade teacher and primary special education teacher. Prior to teaching at Bloomsburg University, Brooke was an Assistant Professor of Special Education at Penn State University. She earned a B.S. in Elementary and Early Childhood Education from Grove City College, a M.S. in Special Education from Johns Hopkins University, and a Ph.D. in Special Education from Penn State University. Brooke currently serves as the President of the Pennsylvania Council for Exceptional Children.

After joining the board in 2019, Brooke has been amazed at the resourcefulness and resilience of the museum. She feels privileged to be part of a group serving the community in such varied ways. On the fourth Saturday of every month, you may catch Brooke and her sons at the Nerf Blaster Modification Club in the Museum's classroom!

