

Andrew Norris

Andrew Norris joined the Bloomsburg Children's Museum Board as an opportunity to serve an organization that means so much to his family and his community.

A proud husband to Jessica and father to four wonderful children, he has been a Bloomsburg resident since 2012 and has enjoyed raising his family here.

While Andrew works for Siemens Energy from his home, his house is full of joy and laughter as Jessica homeschools their four children. The amazing opportunities for Homeschool families is what drew the Norris family to the museum. Seeing the even wider and greater reach and impact of the BCM and knowing the future is even greater is a key component to Andrew's commitment to the museum.
